The Master of Science programs in Physiology and Pharmacology are being replaced by the Master of Science in Veterinary and Biomedical Sciences. The MS in Veterinary and Biomedical Sciences is a College-wide program and will hopefully encourage more interdisciplinary studies. No students will be admitted to the MS in Physiology or Pharmacology and all students in the MS in Physiology and Pharmacology have completed their program as of August 2008. All faculty involved with the MS in Pharmacology and Physiology will be involved in the MS in Veterinary and Biomedical Sciences, thus programs dependent on the MS degree in the Department of Physiology and Pharmacology will not be weakened. There are not plans to reactivate the program.
